Guadalupe Health Center Directors Oust Calhoun

Original Concept Of Health Center Is Being Eroded

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The Guadalupe Health Center is in trouble — bad trouble.

Not since its inception more than five years ago has the entire concept of the clinic been so endangered.

What started as a simple idea for helping the poor and minority of Daly City as a store front operation, has mushroomed into a three office health complex, with all the headaches of a far-flung business operation.

Apparent lack of strong positive leadership among directors and CORE staff officers could result in the demise of the much used medical facility located in the Old Daly City City Hall on Wellington Avenue.

Controversy has flared up around the center's former acting interim director, Shirley Rae Calhoun, alias Shirley Bradford.

Ms. Calhoun recently explained that she possessed two separate Social Security cards — legal, according to the government, she claimed — for "tax purposes."

While she headed the center, Ms. Calhoun, again with the apparent approval of some members of the 17 member Board of Directors, secured the services of consultants to package together programs and conduct studies of what she believed were needed at the center.

The Lucien D'Haiti firm, from the East Bay, was contracted by Ms. Calhoun at a cost of $12,000 for a month-long study (amounting to the equivalent of $400 per day).

She also acquired the services of Ed Weiss, who was a management consultant for HEW and also was employed by Kappa (a medical consultant firm of Los Angeles) before accepting the open-end consultant job he is now doing for the center.

When Weiss was with the Kappa firm, he conducted an evaluation and review of the center for HEW.

He found discrepancies and made a voluminous report on changes needed to shape up the clinic.

What affect the consultant's reports and recommendations have had on the clinic is not known.

Some staff and board members think the evaluations have been worthwhile. Others feel they are a waste of money.

If the clinic shuts its doors it will end the internal bickerings and power plays, but the people it was designed to help undoubtedly will suffer, observers feel.

The low income and minority person that needs medical attention and has found it at Guadalupe will be left out in the cold, some clinic officials fear.

Daly City may not want to accept the responsibilities — financial accountability and other duties — of running the clinic until a new director is appointed.

And if a new director is found and put in charge, will this resolve the problems that have invaded the clinic?

Even on this question there is a split among board members — some say "yes." Others say "no."

Analysis

Petty bickering, resignations, firings, charges of malfeasance in office and counter charges dominated Monday's meeting of the Guadalupe Health Center Board of Directors in Daly City.

Shirley Rae Calhoun, center of controversy among some board members since she took over as interim health center director two months ago, was terminated by a majority of 15 board members attending the meeting.

A move to oust Board Chairperson Jini Bartolomew was withdrawn after she handed in a written resignation, effective on April 16.

Joe George, representative for Local 250, Hospital and Institution Workers' Union, threatened to walk off the job, along with the center's 53 employes "if we don't get our pay on Friday."

Last week, center treasurer Maria Borrego allegedly confiscated the Center's records — check books, ledgers and other corporation documents — and turned them over to Daly City police.

Police, aided by city finance staff, have been conducting a review of the files, The Post learned.

Without these files, debts and payrolls cannot be met, some board members charged.

Mrs. Borrego disputed this, pointing out that the payroll checks are written on a computer and "no one has ordered these checks to stop being issued."

A majority of the Board also asked that Daly City be approached to see if they would take over interim control of the center pending appointment of a new center director.

But Mental Health Center Director Leon Cooper said he had been informed Daly City would not be able to take over operation of the center.

He did not identify which city official he had discussed the issue with. However, The Post learned it was Don Fleming, acting director of Department of Community Development.

Edward Weiss, a $200 per day consultant hired by the center, said the city would have to accept accountability for the center if it stepped in.

Bickering among factions at the meeting, most of it centering around confiscation of the center's files and adherence in the past to the center's bylaws, consumed considerable time at the meeting lasting past midnight.

Charges that Mrs. Borrego had "stolen the center's records" and turned them over to police, sparked a debate on whether police could be held liable for "accepting stolen property."

Others said charges of theft and impersonating a police officer should be lodged against those board members who allegedly carted off the records.

Mrs. Borrego responded that she was the treasurer, and as such she was empowered to guard the records of the center.

Former Board director and present manager of the city's Community Service Center, Alice Kessler, said under Section 8 of the center's bylaws the treasurer has charge of all records and funds at the center.

Center attorney Ralph Jacobson, who minutes before had explained "any individual who felt something was being taken that belonged to them had a right to report it to police" amended his opinion and said he was not asked about the position of treasurer.

Calhoun, who also has a social security card issued to her in the name of "Shirley Rae Bradford," for tax purposes, took the news of her firing quietly.

She did not reveal what plans, if any, she had for protesting the ouster.

Ms. Calhoun was hired late last year as a three-week consultant by former center director Ed Rivera. Later, she was given the job of medical center manager. When Rivera was fired, she was appointed interim director.

She has held that post for the past two months.

It was also moved that Cong. Leo Ryan be requested to have the Office of Management and Budget of the Federal Government conduct an audit of the center's federal funds.

Earlier, The Post reported it had learned Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) investigator William Dooley had been briefed on the issue and might conduct an audit of the center's records regarding federal funds.

At the meeting Ms. Bartolomew said she had been told by City Attorney Albert Polonsky that the center may have its records back if Treasurer Borrego picked them up.

However, a police spokesman said he had not been ordered by the city attorney to hand over the records and might dispute such an order if issued.

He did not elaborate.

Asked if she would pick up the records if told it was alright to do so, Mrs. Borrego said, "I don't think so."

VICTOR KYRIAKIS

Victor Kyriakis Named New Daly City Mayor

Victor G. Kyriakis, Daly City attorney and former city planning commissioner, was named mayor of Daly City Monday.

Replacing Kyriakis as mayor pro-tem, is Councilman William Schumacher.

Kyriakis, a resident of Daly City since 1961, was appointed to the City Council in 1972, replacing Assemblyman Louis J. Papan.

The 29-year-old Kyriakis presented a four-point package he will attempt to carry out during his term of office, including more jobs for the city's unemployed; housing for senior citizens; orderly growth; and more government service while holding the line on local taxes.

He said he wants to "spread the Daly City success story," pointing out that Daly City how has the third lowest per capita cost of running city government in San Mateo County, "despite the fact we are the (county's) second largest city."

Outgoing Mayor McRobert Stewart said he was "proud to have served as mayor." He told an overflow crowd attending the affair at City Hall, "I will continue to serve, regardless of what chair I sit in."

Councilman Paul Hupt said he was "confident (Kyriakis) will do a fine job" and pledged his support.

It is the mayor's job to attend "all functions," Councilman Tony Giamonna noted.

"He's going to be busy attending all those functions," Giamonna said.

Newly appointed Mayor Pro-Tem Schumacher did not attend the ceremonies.

Neither the council secretary nor City Manager David Rowe could explain the absence.

The annual rotation of city posts in Daly City had been postponed twice in recent weeks.

Kyriakis, with the unanimous support of the council, adjourned the meeting in honor of the late Bernard J. "Bud" Lycett, longtime mayor of the city who died two months ago.

Countywide Bus System Urged

A resolution urging the San Mateo County Transit Board to establish, own and operate a countywide bus system has been adopted by the San Mateo County Council of Mayors.

The resolution met with some opposition from five cities at the Thursday meeting, but eventually passed, after some debate, by a two-to-one margin.

Burlingame Councilman Irving S. Amstrup objected to a section of the resolution he said prevented the transit district board from studying a federated (city-owned) bus system.

Amstrup said the transit board should have the freedom to study all possibilities "to see which will work."

A motion seeking deletion of this section of the resolution failed on a 10-5 vote.

Foster City Mayor John Lappin said the federated system "is not what the people (of San Mateo County) voted for."

Others, including Menlo Park Councilman Robert Stephens, said the transit board should not be "saddled" with a resolution that would limit their studies.

Arguing in favor of the resolution, Council of Mayors Chairman and Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart, said he had supported the transit system proposal from its inception and thought it was too be a "key system."

"If I'm wrong, it must be because I didn't read the literature properly," he said.

Stewart cautioned the mayors against what he called "fragmenting the system" by establishment of a federated policy.

Opposing any change in the resolution, San Bruno Councilman Tony Governale said he was unable to see anything in the resolution that would prevent the transit board from making an overall study of transit needs in the county.

Menlo Park can better run its own bus system, Menlo Park Councilwoman Jennifer Bigelow said.

The resolution also urges the transit board to hold public hearings throughout the county "on the recommendations of the bus study-transit study for the purpose of developing a general transit plan for the district."

SM Mayors Oppose Senate Bill on Strikes

"Public employes are going to strike. You can sit and wring your hands, but they're going to strike."

Millbrae Mayor Barney Spera, president of Transport Workers Union, Local 505, made that announcement to the San Mateo County Council of Mayors Thursday during introduction of a resolution opposing passage of Senate Bill 275.

The bill would allow public employes to strike or permit an outside third party to make final and binding decisions over an elected city council's objections.

Millbrae was the only city to voice support of SB 275 by registering a loud "no" vote on the resolution which was passed.

"We, as a council, have taken no stand on this bill," San Bruno Councilman Dick Griffith said.

Griffith said he supported Spera's position "and suspect there are other individual council members here who do."

In other action, the mayors heard County Engineer Sid Cantwell explain the projected future of solid waste disposal in the county.

Sal Armogida from the county engineer's office, told of the study approach and existing situation of solid waste management throughout the county, along with regional considerations he said must be dealt with.

There are now 24 franchised collection services run by six scavenger companies for the county's 19 cities, he said.

There also are four sanitary districts and one south coastal area which handles about 350,000 tons of refuse annually at four publicly owned landfills operated by two scavenger companies and one special district.

These dump sites use conventional landfill methods at an estimated annual cost of $13,500,000, Armogida said.

Additionally, there are five public and two private dumps handling some 277,000 tons annually, or 38 per cent of the total refuse.

Cost of operation of these cut-and-fill operations is estimated at $3.75 million annually.

These figures exclude the cost of transportation to the dump sites, Armogida said.

The answer to the continual increase in the amount of waste being dumped is to arrive at a method of converting this waste into energy — heat, electricity, water, the engineer said.

Deadline for submission of a county solid waste management plan is Jan. 1, Cantwell said.

But for every plan arrived at, an alternative measure must be on standby, Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart warned.

And regardless of what system for disposal of solid waste is adopted, there always will be a need for some landfills, Cantwell said.

Magnani Suspension Remains

The California Supreme Court has denied an application to set aside an interim suspension and to grant a hearing to Frank L. Magnani, South San Francisco attorney convicted last November of a burglary charge.

The court, in an order filed March 12, referred the Magnani matter to the State Bar of California for hearing, report and recommendations as to the nature and extent of discipline to be imposed.

A court official in San Francisco explained that Magnani's license has not been withdrawn, nor has he been disbarred. He does remain suspended, he said.

Magnani was convicted of second-degree burglary charges last November in a trial before San Mateo Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum.

The burglary involved a disputed removal of groceries from a market being represented by Magnani in a bankruptcy action.

DC Man Guilty in Slaying

Alan May, a television engineer, was convicted by a Superior Court jury in Redwood City Thursday of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of a woman outside his Daly City home last July.

Judge Lyle R. Edson scheduled sentencing for April 24 at 4 p.m.

The jury of seven women and five men, returned the verdict after a total of three hours of deliberation following the trial which began Monday.

May, 35, was convicted of shooting Doris Ann Dede William, 26, of San Francisco, last July 27 while she was standing with other persons on the porch of the May home. The group had gone to the house to pick up the belongings of a woman who was moving out of the home.

Two Injured In DC Fire

An elderly Daly City woman and a fireman were injured when fire swept through a two-story home on Whittier Street Easter Morning, causing an estimated $18,500 damages.

Battalion Chief Lyle Church blamed a faulty electrical extension cord for the blaze.

Church said the extension cord was covered with some three foot of trash in the living room of the home and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Calvin, both 67 years old.

"I've never seen anything like it in my 20 years of fire service," Church said.

"Garbage was three foot deep in the living room, basement, dining room and kitchen."

The remainder of the home was "neat as a pin," Church said.

About 8 a.m. the couple saw smoke and flames coming from the living room and began battling the fire with wet towels.

Calvin called the fire department and ran outside to guide them to his house.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Calvin became trapped in the home and had to leap from a rear bedroom window — two stories above the ground.

She injured her legs in the jump, a fireman said.

Fire Capt. Jack Winters suffered a hurt back in combatting the fire, Church said.

The couple had made passageways through the piles of refuse, Church said.

It was this refuse that made extinguising of the fire difficult, Church said.

For more than four hours the department remained at the fire scene, "mopping up."

It was finally decided to back a huge scavenger company debris box to a window and shovel the estimated three tons of garbage into the box from the living room.

Church said he was unable to learn why the couple had saved "what looks like years of refuse" in the house.

'Oversell' Warning to Transit Board

The San Mateo County Transit District should take care not to "oversell" and to be sure it can deliver "what you say you can."

This admonition was delivered to the district's board of directors Wednesday night by Meade Telfair, community affairs coordinator for the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Miss Telfair urged the district to involve minorities, the physically handicapped and senior citizens in citizen advisory groups which will assist in the planning for mass transit facilities in the county.

"You are the image," she stated. "If the people don't believe in you, they won't use mass transit."

Director Robert Norris acknowledged that there is a need for a "meaningful community participation program" in the transit district planning.

"We need to look at the expertise that does exist," he stated.

Miss Telfair warned that the board of directors should be in a position to make its own appointments to advisory committees in order to avoid a "takeover" by special interest groups.

Director William H. Rover noted that the county's cities have "accepted" the Regional Planning Committee as the advisory committee to the district.

After hearing Miss Telfair's remarks, however, he said that "perhaps we should check to see if we have been pre-empted."

County Engineer Sid H. Cantwell Jr., who is acting general manager of the transit district, said it was his understanding that the County Board of Supervisors had

Manpower Leaders Reaffirm Goals

Pleading for understanding of their role as grass roots representatives of the people, the six-member "Community Manpower Council Chairpersons' Caucus" Monday night called a press conference at the Martin Luther King Center in San Mateo.

Taking turns, each of the six representatives of San Mateo County Manpower districts asked that recent misunderstandings of their role be corrected.

They refrained from comment on the resignation of County Manpower Planning Coordinator Charles Moody, announced Monday, and on his replacement with Assistant Coordinator Fenny Potts.

That subject, they said, is better left to the county manager, who has expressed confidence in Potts.

The Manpower Council Chairpersons' Caucus said they feel they have done as much as possible with past programs, though only 160 jobs were created with recent federal funding and some 17,000 people are in need of jobs.

They look forward to further success, they said, in their role of representing "community people" in the effort to increase local resources to create jobs for those who need them.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Eleanor Curry, chairperson of District III Community Manpower Council representing San Mateo and other central county cities.

"Community Manpower councils in the six districts have played the central role in planning and programming funds available to the county from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act," Mrs. Curry said.

"Staff support has been provided by the Planning, Research, and Development Unit of the County Economic Opportunity Commission under direction of Stephen Graham."

Mrs. Curry said the Manpower Councils Chairpersons' Caucus "supports the research and development unit 100 per cent."

Without its staff assistnace, she said, the voluntary Manpower Council members would not have been able to get through the long planning sessions in January and February, when $1.6 million in federal job funds had to be divided fairly among San Mateo County communities.

FENNY POTTS
New Coordinator

She said she felt that had been accomplished "on a percentage basis" that "everyone can be comfortable with."

Warnell Coats, chairperson of Manpower District V, including East Palo Alto and Menlo Park, said the Manpower Councils have a record of accomplishment.

In the past year, he said, the Manpower Councils have organized community residents, service providers, city representatives and labor and business officials into the six-district Manpower Councils.

They have provided information to the "target community about manpower programs and services," and established district and countywide needs and priorities for employment, Coats said.

James Keyes, chairperson of District I, Daly City and Pacifica; Clifford Boxley, chairperson of District IV, Redwood City, Belmont, and San Carlos; Marge von Almen of the South Coastside, and Irma Escamilla of District II, North Bayside, joined in listing accomplishments and stating goals.

The Manpower Councils look forward to strengthening their role in manpower planning and decision making, they said, and in providing a means of active input from jobless to the sometimes "ivory-towered government."

There will be a review of manpower administration with an eye to reducing administrative costs, they said, although they have no specific indications that administration costs are out of line.

They will create "aggressive pursuit of funds" from federal job programs and other sources, "to maximize resources to the county."

There also will be the "aggressive pursuit of county government policies and practices," said Boxley, "in affirmative action, welfare, housing, transportation, childcare, economic development and city-county relationships that benefit the unemployed and disadvantaged."

Daly City's Julian Hargrove Dies

Julian Hargrove, 84, of Daly City, died Saturday, at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco after an illness.

He was the retired executive director of the Columbia Park Boys' Club.

He was a native of St. Louis, Missouri.

Until his retirement in 1961, he served as executive director of the boys' club for 18 years.

The club had an $8,000 debt and no credit, no directors and no boys when Hargrove started the job. By the time he retired the club owned a building worth $500,000, a summer camp and had 1,650 members.

Survivors include his widow Georgia; two sons, Edwin of San Rafael and Philip of Daly City; six grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral was held Tuesday at Duggan's Serra Mortuary in Daly City. Interment was at Olivet Memorial Park.

The family prefers contributions be made to the Columbia Park Boys' Club or the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church.

SF Man Injured in Hang Glider Crash

A hang glider enthusiast was injured Sunday when his glider plunged to the ground near Thornton Beach State Park in Daly City.

Stephen Trauth, 25, of San Francisco suffered severe back injuries when his glider struck the ground, after he apparently lost control of the kite from a height of several dozen feet, witnesses said.

The incident occurred about 5 p.m.

Authorities at Mary's Help Hospital said Trauth was in satisfactory condition today.

SM Assessment Review Approved

The hiring of a consultant at a maximum cost of $7,000 to review San Mateo County's assessment practices, particularly as they relate to commercial and industrial property, was authorized Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The board approved a contract for the services with Ronald B. Welch of Sacramento. He has had 29 years experience with the State Board of Equalization and, prior to that, had 10 years of experience in tax and economic research.

Supervisors William H. Rover and John M. Ward, who recommended the agreement, said Welch was "eminently qualified," and reported his selection has the full support of County Assessor Jack Estes and of the Hillsborough Homeowners Association.

The homeowners organization had raised the question of assessment practices in the county, claiming county homeowners are bearing an unfair proportion of the county's tax burden because of underassessment of commercial and industrial properties.

The services to be provided by Welch include review of current commercial and industrial appraisal operations, factors to consider for such appraisals, evaluation of sales ration analysis and cyclical reassessment practices, use of trending and related issues.

The agreement covers the period from April 1 through June 30, with Welch scheduled to present his report in June. The $7,000 cost is a maximum, based on $25 per hour and related travel expenses. Rover and Ward reported.

Advisory Board Meets April 3

The District Parents Advisory Board Meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Westmoor High School library April 3. Input from the community on the 1975-76 ESEA Title VII Budget Proposal for the Bilingual Cross-cultural Program will be requested.

Transit Board

made the RPC "available" to the district as an advisory body.

"It is essential," added Norris, "that in any transit plan developed by the board we really reach out and get citizen participation. It's critically important."

The board was introduced Wednesday to Hank Ruffoni, who has been named executive assistant to Cantwell in the latter's position as acting general manager of the district.

Ruffoni, 44, resigned last August as senior management analyst for the County Civil Service Department where he had been employed for 18 years. His salary is $1,500 a month in the new position.

Free Seedlings Offered Groups

Pacifica officials hope 6,000 seedling trees will be getting new homes April 5.

The tiny seedlings will be sold for four cents each in the Linda Mar Shopping Center by the Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department, from 9 a.m. to noon — but only community groups will be eligible to buy the seedlings.

There will be no sales to individuals.

The species that will be made available (Pines) are all California native conifers that will thrive in Pacifica's coastal climate. One-gallon cans ideal for starting the seedlings have been obtained from the Laguna Salada cafeterias and will also be sold for two cents apiece.

Letters have been sent to the local home owners' associations and to the Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts inviting them to plan Arbor Day planting projects. The trees are intended for planting in public areas, on playgrounds, schoolgrounds, greenbelts, parks, along highways, and on private areas for erosion control.

Park employes will wrap the seedlings in wet sawdust. Sylvester Duplessis, park superintendent, has prepared written instructions which will be distributed with the seedlings, on how to transplant the seedlings to the gallon cans, how to care for them, and how to plant them in the ground when they are ready. The instruction sheets are even illustrated with cartoon tangled roots, too shallow, too deep, with turned up roots or on rock.

Arbor Day originated in Nebraska in 1872 and is now observed in every state in the Union. This year's sale is being held several weeks past the actual Arbor Day date because of the recent inclement weather.

Interested groups, who have not received a letter in the mail should contact PB&R for information.

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has approved a trip for its members to Hawaii next June.

Concluding the March 24 meeting, the board authorized county payment for any of the board members who wish to attend the annual convention of the National Association of County Officials (NACO) June 21-25 in Hawaii.

Supervisor William H. Royer was the only board member at the meeting who stated he definitely intends to go.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald commented that if the convention were to be held in "Timbuktu or some other place, no one is much interested, but is Hawaii this time."

Supervisor Jean Fassler observed that it actually is less expensive to travel to Hawaii than to Washington, D.C. She said the round-trip fare to Washington is $360, while the round-trip fare to Hawaii is $200.

The county ordinance permits up to $50 a day in expenses in addition to travel costs and convention fees

DC Merchants Rap City Hall

The vice president of the Daly City Mission Merchants Association voiced "complete dissatisfaction with the way city fathers handle our problems" Thursday.

George Smith, motel owner and civic leader, said the most recent breakdown between the merchants and City Hall concerns the purchase of a vandal-proof bus shelter proposed for installation at the top of the hill on Mission Street.

Early last December, Smith said, the association gave a check for $1,000 to the city after verbally agreeing to jointly purchase the shelter.

Thursday, Smith said he had learned the shelter had not been ordered even though the check had been cashed and deposited in the city's account.

"It should be drawing interest for us by now," past Mission Merchants President Vince Merlo commented on hearing the news.

Smith said he first proposed the shelter in April, 1974.

"The thing that amazes me is the city still hasn't done anything on this matter," he said.

Defending the city, Redevelopment Agency planning engineer Don Ciucci blamed pigeonholing of the shelter purchase request on "an administrative mixup."

The shelter will be ordered "hopefully next week," Ciucci said, explaining that sometimes mixups occur in large cities the size of Daly City.

Cost of the shelter is estimated at $2,200 with a three to four week delivery period.

"There is a tremendous breakdown between the city, merchants and community," Smith warned.

"I'm tired of asking, time and again, the status of things we have requested from the city and being put off," Smith said. "We should start making the city more responsive."

Ciucci volunteered to act as a "go-between" for the merchants and city in establishing a new routing of requests.

"Daly City is a very large city and there are many pressing problems," Ciucci said.

In other matters, Merlo blasted merchants who allow employes to park in front of stores, taking up parking spaces that should be reserved for customers.

He pointed out that the city has provided parking lots at a nominal fee for employe parking, and called the attitude of those merchants who continue to ignore the plan "pure stupidity."

Non-profit Corporation Created

New Building Voted in SSF

South San Francisco's City Council, in a special session Thursday afternoon, adopted plans and specifications and authorized the creation of a non-profit organization for building and funding a new public safety facility.

Councilman Leo Padreddii, who was opposed to the project from the start, cast the only negative vote.

In introducing the ordinance approving and authorizing the execution of a facility lease between the city and the South San Francisco Public Facilities Corp., the non-profit corporation, it was explained the city will pay a lease amount sufficient to retire a $4.5 million non-profit bond.

While the council was deciding the financing proposal, commonly referred to as "lease-back," several tenants of two apartment houses on Grand Avenue, near where the new facility will be built, reiterated complaints ranging from bad management to inconvenience from construction noise.

These apartments, purchased as part of the public safety site, will be sold to the highest bidder, according to Assistant City Manager Mike Wilson. Residents of other properties purchased for the site location will be relocated at the city's expense, he said.

In other business, the council:

• Forwarded a letter to the San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors making a recommendation for the operation and organization of a unified transit system, saying the district should have its own staff and should pursue any and all meanjls of funding immediately.

• Approved the hiring of one upgraded engineering position, from junior civil engineer to associate civil engineer. Staff had requested two upgradings as a means to obtain higher qualified employes. The council, however, hesitated in creating two more costly positions.

Pacifican Shot, Wife Quizzed

A Pacifica man was shot dead in his home March 24 and his widow was questioned in connection with the death, according to Pacifica police.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday was Jesse De La Rosa, 43, of 555 Vista Mar, an employe of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Police questioned Mrs. Emily De La Rosa, 51, after the shooting, but determined that the death resulted from an accidental shooting. Police have recommended that the district attorney not file charges.

According to police, De La Rosa had kept a .22 caliber pistol in his home for about two months prior to the shooting. The gun belonged to his son, Albert, who resides in San Francisco.

Police said Mrs. De La Rosa complained March 24 she did not like having the gun in the house. Police said she asked her husband if she could take the gun outside the house. De La Rosa consented, police said, and when asked by his wife if the gun was loaded he said it was not.

Mrs. De La Rosa got the gun, and as she turned around to walk out of the house, police said, the gun discharged, and a slug hit De La Rosa in the lower left shoulder. He fell to the floor.

At first, Mrs. De La Rosa told police she thought her husband was only "playing," when he fell. But when the De La Rosa's 16-year-old daughter bent down to talk to her father, she noticed blood.

She called police.

Pacifica Bans All Fireworks

Pacifica's City Council Monday night became the first San Mateo County municipality to ban all fireworks.

The ban will become effective July 5. Permits for fireworks stands already have been approved for this year.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy cast the sole "no" vote.

Such a fireworks ban has been debated here for months.

But the final passage March 23 of an ordinance change creating the ban of even "safe and sane" type fireworks went without discussion.

It had been thrashed out at numerous prior meetings, including March 12, when Councilman Aubrey Lumley pressed for immediate passage.

He ultimately gained the support of Councilwoman Janice Fulford, Councilman Sid Lorvan and Mayor Stan Farber.

There have been unconfirmed reports that opponents of the ban might attempt to have the issue placed on the ballot.

The council also approved shifting of $10,000 from its social service fund to the jurisdiction of the city's Bicentennial Committee.

Pacifica Considering Campaign Gift Limits

An ordinance limiting city council campaign contributions has been introduced in Pacifica.

The proposal would prohibit contributions in excess of $100 to a candidate with respect to a single election. In addition, anonymous contributions in excess of $25 would be prohibited.

"Contributions" include money, services "or other things of value."

A candidate could contribute only $300 toward his own nomination of election.

Additionally, the proposal limits overall campaign expense.

"No candidate shall incur or permit the incurrence of campaign expense with respect to a single election in excess of 10-cents multiplied by the number of voters registered in the city at the preceding general election," states one section of the proposed law.

Other provisions of the ordinance would make reporting of campaign contributions and contributors mandatory.

Violation would be considered a misdemeanor.

$110,000 SSF Fire

South San Francisco police and fire officials suspect a fire was started in a South Airport Boulevard office-warehouse complex at about 10 p.m. March 24, to cover evidence of a burglary.

The fire, at the International Office Products, 490 South Airport Blvd., resulted in an estimated $110,000 damage.

According to Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner the fire department received a report of a fire at IOP.

When firemen arrived at the scene, Toellner said firemen discovered that a door to the sales office was open and a window had been smashed. Pry marks also were found alongside the open door.

Police were called to the scene.

Pacifica Blaze Hurts Fireman

Fire raced through a vacant, two-story Pacifica residence early Thursday, threatening neighboring homes, and injuring one firefighter.

Flames and smoke poured from all the upper and lower windows of the house at 411 Heathcliff Drive and "lighted the sky like a big beacon," a fire offial said.

Eighteen firefighters, including volunteers, battled for 20 minutes to control the fire from spreading to neighboring homes.

"We had severe exposure problems," a fire official said. "The fire did spread to the ridge of a house at 415 Heathcliff, but we were able to contain it."

According to the official, numerous calls from Heathcliff Drive residents came into the fire station beginning at 12:55 a.m.

The official said by the time firefighters arrived at the scene two-thirds of the roof of the residence was involved in flames.

Before it was extinguished the fire had involved the entire upper story and one-third of the lower story.

No estimate of damage has been made.

Firefighter Jim Bonner suffered minor heat exhaustion, was treated and reported back to work.

Bayshore Mishap Kills Man

A San Francisco man died March 24 at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco from injuries sustained when he was hit by a car while running across the Bayshore Freeway.

Antonio Ortega, 47, was pronounced dead at 10:15 a.m.

According to a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol, Ortega, for unknown reasons, ran from the shoulder of Highway 101 near Oyster Point toward the center divider.

Dodging cars, he reached the left lane of the freeway, but before he could make it to the divider, he was hit by a car driven by Henry Lopez, 30, of San Francisco.

The CHP spokesman said when Lopez saw Ortega he slammed on his car's brakes, and swerved to miss him, but Ortega was clipped with the right front fender of the Lopez car. Ortega hit and smashed the front windshield of the car and rolled off the auto onto the pavement.

Another car, being driven by David Andreatta, 22, also of San Francisco, ran over the body in the middle lane.

Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair At Lab Consult's Risk

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Scientific Research on 'HSP'

By MICHELLE CARTER
Post Staff Writer

The study of extra-sensory perception and the paranormal seems to operate somewhere on the fringes of science conducted by people whose credentials are sometimes hard to establish. So it's news when a scientist with impeccable references lends her reputation to such research.

Just such a scientist is Dr. Shafica Karagulla, M.D., a neuro-psychiatrist who was challenged to read the story of Edgar Cayce with an open mind. She did, was intrigued with his ability to perceive at a distance and subsequently re-directed her own career into a research foundation dedicated to applying scientific standards to the study of what she prefers to call "higher sense perception."

"There isn't anything 'extra-sensory' about it. Some people have the ability to perceive at higher octaves of the five senses," she said.

Dr. Karagulla was interviewed last weekend when she and her associate Viola Pettit Neal, Ph.D., a psychologist, were in town to give a seminar on the "Higher Reaches of the Mind." Because of crowded schedules, the interview was conducted in the waiting room of a chiropractor with whom both women had appointments.

Dr. Karagulla sees higher sense perception as the logical extension of physics accepted by all scientists. She describes HSP as the "creative aspect of the superconscious" and refers to persons with highly developed HSP as the "supersane."

In her book, "Breakthrough to Creativity" on which she collaborated with Dr. Neal, she focuses on the case histories of several of these supersane individuals including "Dianne" who has the ability to see into the human body and observe malfunctions, sometimes before the individual is aware of them.

Dr. Shafica Karagulla

But Dr. Neal believes that a large number of the people in the upper 20 per cent range of human intelligence are capable of HSP or at least "have talents in that direction."

"Most people in that intellectual range have it, but are often blocked in the use of it. Focusing on their job calls out the ability, but sometimes they aren't aware of it ... Anytime I hear a doctor who is a good diagnostician, I know he has a lot of ESP," Dr. Neal said. She uses the terms ESP and HSP interchangeably.

She told of an executive who always seemed to know when problems arose in a department of his business and of a doctor who sensed what was wrong as soon as a patient entered the room.

"A lot of professional people are using it every day entertwined with their professional training and know-how. Once they become aware of it, they can use it more frequently," according to Dr. Neal who heads a business consultant firm as well as working with Dr. Karagulla.

But when someone realizes his unusual abilities, Dr. Neal advises him to "use it in his creative work and not say too much" because the world is not yet accepting.

Dr. Karagulla disagrees, noting that sometimes people are too ready to accept things. "People can be too gullible. They need to be very careful of charlatans."

Dr. Karagulla's interest in separating the genuine from the charlatans is one of the motivating forces behind the Higher Sense Perception Research Foundation which she created and now directs in Beverly Hills. Through the foundation, she seeks out people with unusual HSP abilities, documents their claims and then attempts to describe just what mechanisms they use.

Some of those with diagnostic abilities perceive "differing energy fields" emanating from the body and, by distinguishing one field from another, they can determine whether or not a woman is pregnant, illnesses, even Mongolism.

As a result of this research, Dr. Karagulla foresees "new approaches to unsolved medical problems, even cures and new understanding as to the causes of diseases."

Dr. Viola Pettit Neal

Dr. Neal and Dr. Karagulla draw a fine line between higher sense perception and other manifestations of the paranormal such as psychics who give "readings" and healers.

"We accept these psychic phenomena. They're real, they exist and it's all very interesting, but our prime concern is with higher sense perception," Dr. Neal said.

But despite this separation of phenomena, Dr. Neal eagerly discusses many of the paranormal themes which she is convinced exist.

She says she has seen healer Kathryn Kuhlman cure a spastic child of the condition that had plagued him since birth and has seen documented proof that the child was still in the best of health two years later.

She also believes that the psychic surgeons of the Philippines effect real cures although she admits that there probably are some fakes among them.

Reincarnation is a subject that she casually refers to often in her conversations. She accepts it, but notes that Dr. Karagulla won't admit to it in public "because it can't be proven scientifically."

But Dr. Neal sees a "cycle of incarnations" in which a person develops "faculty and facility in early incarnations and then is able to choose his later incarnations much like a student chooses what to major in in college."

Once a choice has been made about a future life, then a person chooses the family he will be born into, she says, picking parents who will most likely help the person develop the incarnation he desires.

Dr. Karagulla and Dr. Neal will give another seminar in the Bay Area in June. For further information write to Seminars Unlimited, P.O. Box 1205, San Rafael.

DAR Award for SSF Girl

Judith Agnes Gumba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gumba of South San Francisco, was selected as this year's recipient of the DAR Good Citizen Award from Mercy High School.

She, along with nine other young ladies, was honored at a tea given by the Anson Burlingame Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, each honored guest being the DAR Good Citizen from her respective high school. To be selected for this honor, the senior girl selected must possess the qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Judith has been active at Mercy High School and in school government (senior class president), the Girls Athletic Association, CSF, and several clubs — including Red Cross, guitar club and Irish club.

The recent tea was held in the auditorium of the Burlingame Public Library. Gold pins and certificates were presented to senior girls in ten mid-Peinsula high schools, with parents and faculty representatives invited to attend. Sister Mary Martin, principal at Mercy High School was invited to introduce Miss Gumba.

Mrs. Beverly Williams of San Mateo is regent of the Anson Burlingame Chapter of DAR, and the hostess committee was headed by Mrs. Edward J. Redlich of San Mateo. In charge of the Good Citizen Awards were co-Chairwomen Mrs. Bernard Cherney of Redwood City and Mrs. Fredric Roehr of San Mateo.

Mrs. Thomas F. Meagher of Millbrae, district chairwoman of the DAR Good Citizens, was a special guest.

Demo Women To Meet

Democratic Women's Division Northern Chairman Madge Overhouse will be the guest speaker at a brown-bag lunch sponsored by the San Mateo County Democratic Women (SMCDW), at noon April 10 at Democratic Headquarters, 2191 El Camino Real, San Mateo.

Mrs. Overhouse will report on the Democratic Executive Committee meeting which will be held in Orange, California on April 4-5.

Her report will concentrate on the direction of women within the Democratic party structure and the determinations made by the Executive Committee in this regard.

A native of Santa Clara County Mrs. Overhouse is a member of the Standing Rules Committee of the Democratic State Central Committee (DSCC), a delegate to the Democratic Charter Convention held in Kansas City last December, and was the Democratic candidate in the 22nd Assembly District in the November general election.

Reservations and more information regarding the luncheon may be obtained by calling the SMCDW at Democratic Headquarters, 574-3366 between 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Symphony Auditions Deadline Announced

Auditions for young musicians who wish to solo with the California Youth Symphony next season will be held on May 3 at San Francisco State College in San Francisco.

The deadline for submitting applications for the auditions is April 7.

Applications forms and contest rules may be obtained from the California Youth Symphony Association, P.O. Box 1441, Palo Alto, California 94032. Pianists and symphonic instrumentalists must be under 19 years of age on May 31, 1975, and be prepared to perform the first movement or the second and third movements of a "standard concerto" as prescribed by the rules. Applicants will be judged by three musicians whose decision will be final.

The aim of the CYS auditions is to give young, talented the and opportunity to perform with a fine youth orchestra before large, appreciative audiences. Each competition winner (a maximum of three will be chosen) will play with the California Youth Symphony, under its conductor, Aaron Sten, during the 1975-76 concert season at both San Mateo High School and Flint Center in Cupertino.

In the past 23 years some 35 audition winners have performed with the orchestra. Appearing as soloists with the orchestra this season are Julie McKenzie, who played the Concertino for Flute and Orchestra by Chaminade last November; David Sigal who played Totentanz, a work for piano and orchestra, by Liszt at the February concerts; and Virginia Perry, who will perform the first movement of Saint-Saens Concerto No. 4 in C. Minor with the orchestra in April.

Damonte to Head SSF Cancer Drive

The San Mateo County Unit of the American Cancer Society has announced the appointment of Emanuel "Mitch" Damonte as 1975 Cancer Crusade city chairman for South San Francisco.

Demonte, principal of Los Cerritos Elementary School, has resided in South San Francisco 39 years. He has been active with scouting and the Boys Club. He also served on the 1970 County Grand Jury and has been a member of the Catholic Social Service Board.

"The need to help the Cancer Society is more evident now than ever before," said Demonte. "There have been so many advances in cancer research and so many more will be discovered before we win the battle against this dread disease," added Demonte.

The American Cancer Society receives no funds from the United Bay Area Crusade and must rely on private donations to help support its present programs of education, rehabilitation and service to cancer patients.

"Cancer can strike anyone, anytime. It's everyone's duty to help their friends and neighbors as well as themselves. Let's not shirk our responsibility; let's stop this killer," said Demonte.

April is Cancer Crusade Month. For details, call Damonte at Los Cerritos School (589-6272, Ext. 259) or the North County Branch of the American Cancer Society at Sear's Tanforan Store (583-4821).

Test Ready

The Civilian Defense Corps of Pacifica will present an emergency preparedness program April 8 at 8 p.m. to inform interested people on what to do immediately after an earthquake or tidal wave warning.

The program will be at Fairmont Recreation Center, 649 Parkview Circle. The public is invited.

Skyline College Graphic Display

An exclusive Ferdinand Roten Galleries exhibit will be held at Skyline College April 8, in the main theater lobby from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This program is sponsored in cooperation with Skyline College's Community Services Office.

Community Services Director David Marin said this collection is considered by many to be one of the most important and varied collections of original graphics in the world. He said the Roter group includes graphics spanning six centuries. Artists shown are Daumier, Goya, Miro, Picasso, Hogarth, Zox, Krushenick, and Matisse.

Works of new artists and those unknown to the general public will also be part of this collection.

"It is a constantly changing, evolving collection which reflects the growing artistic sophistication of the American public as well as present and future trends in graphic arts," Marin said.

Original prints of these graphics will also be on sale

'State Worst Bargaining Agent for Kids'

Arnett Talks on School Financing

"Even though the governor has given us precious little indication of what his priorities are," said Assemblyman Dixon Arnett to some 80 local members of the Association of California Administrators at that group's March Region V meeting, "Understand, I'm not selling Jerry Brown short.

"He (the governor) is a very sensitive person, by no means a dumb-dumb. He's not callous, but he has said 'No,' 'No,' 'No,' irrespective of what any measure requests. He's very difficult to understand from the outside."

There's a "confusion" in all this process, Arnett said.

"We (the four San Mateo County State legislators — Arnett, Assemblyman Papan, Sen. Arlen Gregorio and Sen. George Moscone) are getting two messages. One, from the schools, says, 'we need financial help.' The other, from the governor is that he will not sign any such funding legislation this year or next."

Arnett spoke at length about a possibility that he termed a "silver lining." He detailed a phone conversation he had recently with the governor. Arnett said he told Brown that he could "tailor a bill" in line with the Serrano decision and that two currently popular educational funding ideas — the Santa Cruz plan and the State School proposal — had sufficient flexibility to be structured around any "dollar prescription" the governor might want.

BROWN SEEMED surprised that this was possible, said Arnett, who shared with the audience his own surprise that the governor was surprised and added, parenthetically, that Brown should have appointed an educational advisor by this time — someone who would have been able to keep the governor informed about such possibilities, as well as furnish him with some rudimentary facts concerning solutions to the Serrano situation.

Because of what Arnett described as a confused situation in Sacramento, Arnett is aware that there has been considerable blood letting in the schools. How to make cuts is the educational topic of the day. Arnett reported a conversation he had had recently with a school board member who had asked for advice on "which state law to violate first" when a district is "cutting to the bone."

Arnett reminded the group that San Mateo County is one of the few places in the state "really hurting" as a result of declining enrollment, inflation and the provisions of SB 90.

"Right now, the major urban areas, Los Angeles and Oakland, primarily, can still 'rip off a few bucks' in categorical aid. They still aren't feeling any squeeze and therefore they're not communicating need. Our legislative process reacts to pressure. Until Los Angeles really has the problem our county has, and starts talking about it, the legislature won't react, nor will the governor."

"If you have administrator friends in other parts of the state, especially in the large urban areas," Arnett advised, "Rattle their cages. Let them know how bad the squeeze feels."

Following his prepared comments, Arnett answered questions from the group.

In his opinion, if a statewide property tax measure (in an attempt to implement the equalization provision of the Serrano decision) is passed, along with a collective bargaining for public employes bill, then the public can say "goodbye to local control."

If such a statewide property tax bill were to put in the form of a constitutional amendment, then, in effect, the legislature will "run the schools."

"I cannot think," said Arnett, seriously, "of a worse bargaining agent for kids than the state legislature.

"Everything is negotiable if collective bargaining is instituted," he warned. "The Stull Bill would become moot. Tenure, evaluation, employes' rights, pupil teacher ratio, along with salaries and fringe benefits would all be items for legitimate negotiation."

Although Arnett thinks Governor Brown has given some indication of hedging on his campaign promise to back any collective bargaining legislation, Arnett feels that the atmosphere of the legislature is such that a collective bargaining for public employes bill will become law by July 1, 1975.

In answer to a question concerning the possibility of an initiative measure in 1976 to counteract the effects of collective bargaining, Arnett advised that such a measure be "simply written" and aimed at a single provision of the collective bargaining legislation, removal, for example of the "right to strike" clause.

"The general public will have to realize that "the eggs will all be in the employes' basket' under collective bargaining. Maybe it will take a strike to wake up the public. Or if 'binding arbitration' causes a mandatory tax increase, a few people may complain," he said.

When questioned concerning the assumption of responsibility for adequate school financing by state leaders, Arnett answered, "Jerry (Brown) will have to understand he can't say 'No,' 'No,' 'No,' especially if the budget shows a surplus. He'll have to decide if school finance fits into 'his' plans."

Arnett said it is imperative some solution be made to the problem raised by the Serrano decision.

"To do nothing about school finance this year is to be 'penny wise and pound foolish." The longer the legislature puts off legislation implementing an idea 'whose time has come,' the harder it will be."

Arnett added that if the legislature leaves it too long, the court will do it and if the court does it, it will apply the strictest interpretation. "Under those considerations, a billion and a half to a two billion tax measure would be foreseeable."

Arnett concluded his comments with a reaction to a statement made recently by Senator Arlen Gregorio implying that the general public may be 'down on education." Arnett agrees. Since fewer persons today have direct contact with the schools, those who work with the children will have to reach out to those in the community to help them understand education's needs and accomplishments.

"A reality to be faced by today's administrators is that you've got to get the public with you."

FRIENDS WORKSHOP

Friends of the Daly City Library will host the Annual Northern Workshop of the Friends of the California Libraries on April 12, at Serramonte High School, Daly City. Co-chairwomen Mmes. Albert Teglia (right) and Emmett Tierney (second from left) have sent reservation brochures to members of Friends of Library groups and librarians from Monterey and Fresno north to the Oregon border. With a theme of "Getting to Know Us," activities will include discussion groups, exhibits and demonstration of the on-line information retrieval system "Dialog." Dr. Kevin Starr, San Francisco City Librarian, will be keynote speaker. The Post will be honored at the luncheon for its contribution, through publicity, toward success of Friends' programs and projects. Mrs. John Connolly (second from right) is president of local Friends; Will Thomas (left) is editor of The Post.

Red Cross Readies 'Fix-It-Van'

"Health and safety hazards often exist in the home simply because the homeowner cannot perform the minor repairs that would remove existing dangerous conditions," said Bill Bennett, Red Cross Community Worker in South San Francisco.

The Red Cross Service Center in South San Francisco now is working on a project to meet this need for minor repairs in the home, especially for senior citizens and shut-ins in the community.

A five-member committee of Red Cross volunteers is considering the possible operation of a Fix-It Van in the South San Francisco area.

Referrals to the Red Cross Fix-It Van service will be handled through the Senior Citizens Information and Referral Center in South San Francisco.

The Red Cross Fix-It Van will be equipped with tools and any pieces of equipment necessary to perform the minor repair jobs to be done. Older People United for Service (OPUS), a county-wide organization centered in Menlo Park at Little House, is helping the Red Cross equip its Fix-It Van.

The Fix-It Van crew will not perform those major repairs which require professional attention. Instead, they will perform only those minor repairs usually handled by the man-of-the-house.

Most of the repair work done by the Fix-It Van crew will relate directly to safety -- a basic concern of the Red Cross. Their work will be the repair of minor safety hazards such as light switches, leaking faucets, broken steps and windows and doors that do not close properly.

Two retired South San Francisco residents with experience in doing minor repairs have already volunteered to staff the Van on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Lou Celentano currently does minor repairs for members of his church. Walter Christiansen is a retired construction worker.

If the Red Cross Fix-It Van team cannot perform the requested repair job, they will provide the homeowner with a general list of businesses in the area who can do the job.

Assistance is needed at this point from South San Franciscans to compile the list of local businesses who can perform repairs the Fix-It Van team cannot handle and to staff the Van so it can operate more than two days a week.

Once the Van is in operation, volunteers will be needed to take the incoming requests for service and to schedule the repair jobs.

Bi-lingual volunteers will be especially helpful in all stages of the Red Cross Fix-It Van project.

Anyone who would like to help with this project in any way, is asked to call the Red Cross South San Francisco Service Center: 589-5864.

Those Letters To the Editor

"What makes people mad these days?" The letters to the editors of the various newspapers and periodicals show that Americans are "fed up" with a variety of things.

One V. S. McCollum poured his gripe into a rhyme which he called "Staccato Soliloquy" and published in the "California Farmer."

"Every day
To me I say
No leeway
On the freeway . . .
No chance
To advance
With speed,
No need to fred
Or sweat
Because, friend
In the end
You'll contrive
To arrive
A little late,
Full of hate
For men and cars . . .
But not for Stars."

Responding to an article about soap operas that appeared in "San Francisco" magazine a woman from Virginia writes, "It's about time someone came to the defense of this maligned genre.

"In addition to the serious health problems dealt with by the soaps . . . You can add illegal abortion, impotence, the psychological effects of vasectomy and, of course, such everyday diseases as alcoholism, drug addiction and cancer of the breast.

"Televised medical science," she asserts, "seems to have got the problems almost licked.

"Hang by your thumbs, Marcus Welby."

Nevertheless a San Francisco woman spent her anger against the "soaps" with these words" . . . The only thing that soap men or women care about is the life of the heart. Forget honesty. Forget the world outside of Oakdale or Somerset or wherever. This is an archaic view of woman's sphere. And it is not the way the world turns.

THE SPEED that some people use to discard advertisements angers the manager of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, hence he wrote, "I do not believe that the designers, copywriters, production people, mailers and all other professionals in the mailing industry believe that their work should be tossed out the minute it arrives. I also was not aware of the fact that the United States Postal Service was in the habit of delivering junk!"

A cartoonist for the "Wall Street Journal" found that slow clerks anger many people, as he produced a picture of a woman shouting to a slow checker at a supermarket. "Hurry up — my tranquilizer is wearing off."

The lack of privacy angers many Americans. For them a member of the Minnesota State Legislature, Hon. Bruce D. Williamson, wrote to the "Christian Science Monitor," "When we are stamped, sealed, quantified, traced, and ultimately regulated, how long will it take to investigate how it happened and formulate a program to reverse the progress?"

Often letters to editors are prompted by an article or a news story that was published. In such letters the spleen of the writer gushes forth with profound indignation. "You do a disservice to your readers with your narrow viewpoint!" "Let's face the tragic fact. You are wrong!" "Who in the hell do you think you're kidding!" Then there is the dignified respondent, "Let me state quite succinctly: I am proud of my views." And the debator who throws the newspaper a chance to compromise, "I might agree with you, sir, will you change your mind. And the man of few words. "Sir, you smell!"

Perhaps the cutest letter of the week was from the "old man" who responded to a picture of Cher Bono with, "As one of the older boys of the family, I found the edition ("Time") with Cher on the front was a treat."

But a female writer was moved in a different way by Cher's picture. "Disgusting — your recent cover. I tore it off and threw it away all crumpled up!"

Meanwhile some psychologists agree with Steele that such letters have a value. "A woman seldom writes her mind, but in her letter," while many readers of letters to editors agree with Thrall and Hibbard that such constitute "one of the pleasantest of byways in the whole realm of literature."

MILTON-MANBERT

West Portal Lutheran Church in San Francisco was the setting for the marriage of Carolyn Marie Manbert and Dennis Brian Milton, who honeymooned in southern California and are making their first home in South San Francisco. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rush M. Manbert, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Milton. Both families live in Daly City.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

The Easter bunny has hopped away, leaving us with a clutch of hard-cooked eggs, some jelly beans and a bit of left-over ham. Therefore the first order of business today is to offer a recipe for using up the last tasty pieces of ham to the best advantage.

This casserole is a tasty combination of ham, Swiss cheese, noodles and sour cream with green pepper and onion giving it added color and flavor.

HAM AND CHEESE NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 package (12 oz.) wide noodles
2½ cups (¾ pound) diced cooked ham
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1/3 chopped green pepper
2 Tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups (1 pint) dairy sour cream
2 green pepper rings for garnish

Cook the 12 ounces of noodles according to directions on package; drain.

In large bowl toss together the noodles, two and one-half cups diced cooked ham, two cups shredded Swiss cheese, one-third cup green pepper, two tablespoons chopped onion and one teaspoon salt. Gently blend in the one pint sour cream. Turn into a buttered two-quart casserole. Bake in 375-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes or until cheese melts and casserole is heated through. Top with green pepper rings. Serves six to eight.

With Easter vacation ending we are once more rushing around in the morning packing lunches. Since the part of lunch that disappears fastest is the dessert, perhaps this recipe for some quick and easy bar cookies is just what we need.

RAISIN COOKIE-BAR

1 egg, unbeaten
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1/3 cup melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2/3 cup seedless raisins
2 Tablespoons granulated sugar, mixed with
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Beat the egg; gradually beating in the two-thirds cup sugar. Stir in the one-third cup melted butter and one teaspoon vanilla. Sift together and add the one cup flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt; mix well. Add the two-thirds cup raisins.

Spread in greased nine-inch square pan. Sprinkle top with the two tablespoons sugar and one-half teaspoon cinnamon combination.

Bake in 350-degree oven about 20 minutes, or until done. (Don't overbake.) Cut into 24 bars.

Monte Carlo Night

Members of Holy Angels Parish promise a night of fun and games for those attending their "Monte Carlo Night" which is scheduled April 12 at 7:30 p.m. Prizes, refreshments and other festivities will be offered. Pictured are members of the parish (from left) front row: Mrs. George Sigigie, Mrs. Thomas Barner; back row: Mrs. John Moran, Mrs. Alfred Padreddii, John Brignoli, Mrs. Robert Swanson and Ray Thompson.

Bethel Church Anniversary Celebration This Month

Over 500 persons are expected to join in celebrating the 50th Anniversary of Bethel Lutheran Church, 2525 Alemany Blvd., San Francisco, from April 6 through April 13.

The activities include: April 6 — 8 a.m.-10:45 a.m., Homecoming: Worship Services led by Pastor Schoreder; 3 p.m., dinner at Sons of Italy Hall, 5051 Mission St., San Francisco; April 8 — 7:30 p.m., Bethel's Past, slide presentation; April 10 — 7:30 p.m., Bethel's Prsent, fellowship night; April 13 — 8 a.m.-10:45 a.m., Bethel's Future, worship services led by Pastor Bauer.

Bethel Lutheran Church serves the outer Mission District of San Francisco and portions of Daly City and was established by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. The first small chapel was dedicated on March 29, 1925, and was located on the corner of Vienna and France streets in the Excelsior District. By 1928 a second building was constructed on an adjacent lot.

With the continued growth of membership, the congregation purchased a site in the outer Mission District on the corner of Alemany Boulevard, Huron and Ottawa streets.

Two pastors have served the congregation — Rev. Herbert P. Schroeder 1925-68; and Rev. Kenneth A. Bauer September 1968 to the present.

Bethel Church prides itself on its service to those of the faith and of the area in which it is situated evidenced by its many community out-reach programs: sponsoring of Girl and Boy Scout troops and Campfire Girls and a mini-gym opened to all in the neighborhood.

In addition, the Bethel Center for the Developmentally Disabled was established three years ago and is considered the primary mission ministry. A Wheatridge Foundation grant has made it possible to hire a full-time worker.

Because the church is located in an area where the State of California has placed so many mentally retarded adults in residences, this program is meeting a need in assisting these individuals to develop a social relationship with the community. In an age where there is declining church membership, Bethel Lutheran Church, because of its viable programs, is increasing its membership.

The anniversary chairman, Elmer H. Ohlendorf, extends an invitation to all interested citizens to attend the celebration.

'Mousetrap' to Open

The longest running play on the London or any other stage is set to open in Pacifica April 11. The play is Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap." Originally written as a radio play, it was, due to its success, later adapted by Miss Christie into a short story and a stage play. The stage play opened in London in 1952, and is still running in London today.

Set in an English boarding house, the play centers on a group of strangers stranded during a snow storm and surrounded by murder. The clever pitting of the suspects against each other and the continuing murders makes for a most suspenseful evening.

"The Mousetrap" is being directed by Craig Cummins, and Marj Heise is the assistant director. In the cast are Kathleen Trian and Larry McInerney as Mollie and Giles Ralston; Gordon Sheridan, Berneice Olson and Warren Gabrielli are Christopher Wren, Mrs. Boyle and Major Metcalf; Kathleen McIntyre, J. L. Leyva and Robert Struckman will be seen as Miss Casewell, Mr. Paravicini and Det. Sgt. Trotter.

"The Mousetrap" will have a six-performance run, with dates of April 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 at Oddstad Park Center, 1000 block of Crespi Drive, Pacifica. Tickets will be available at the door.

Planners, Police Set Conference

What do physical planners and police have in common?

They are both concerned about property. The planners design dwellings and the police try to protect them, but somehow more communication is needed between the two.

San Mateo County law enforcement officials, planning directors, urban designers and citizen representatives will meet April 4 at the Foster City Community Center to discuss the relationship between crime prevention and physical planning. Representatives from the North County include Captain Frank Hedley of the San Bruno Police Department and an executive of Visitacion Associates, potential San Bruno Mountain developers.

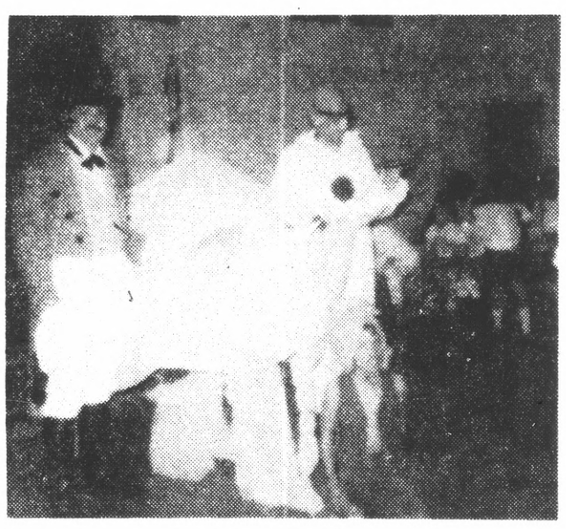
The all-day seminar is the first of two being coordinated through C.A.P.T.U.R.E., the federally-funded citizens' crime prevention program in San Mateo County. Purpose of both seminars is to bring these community policymakers together to heighten their awareness of the relationship between physical planning and crime prevention efforts. Not only will participants be sharing new information, but also will be developing continuing programs for their various jurisdictions.

Through cooperation early in the development of new projects, it was explained the potential impact of crime, especially opportunistic crimes, can be greatly reduced, and the community can be rendered an increased chance of sustaining a positive social atmosphere.

The seminars will include workshop sections, highlighting the management of existing residential, commercial and public developments, where insufficient cooperative planning has resulted in serious crime problems.

Attendance at both seminars is by invitation only. The seminars are being designed by Social Engineering Technology, a Los Angeles-based planning consulting firm.

Other North County representatives include Don Fleming, acting planning director for Daly City; Wesley Slade, of South San Francisco; Detective James Cooper of the North San Mateo Crime Prevention Unit, and Officer Fred Carelli, South San Francisco police.



CIRCUS NIGHT

Daly City Cubs Hold Circus Night

After the circus, awards were given as follows: Jim Root and Steve Earle, Wolf Badges, and Dwayne Bonilla, a Silver Arrow.

Showman awards went to Greg Cartwright, Bob Rosenberg, Bob Bartolo and Robert Taylor. David Moran earned his naturalist, craftsman, outdoorsman and sportsman badges. Mike Earle received aquanaut and traveler badges and Bob Rosenberg received his traveler award.

The April meeting will be Pinewood Derby Night and will be held April 9 at Thomas Edison School.

New Consumer Group Tells it Like it Is

By BOB PETERSON

The lady telling her story at San Bruno's St. Andrew's Church had avid listeners.

She was confiding a problem. It was not of sin and damnation. Rather a complaint of how she was not getting consumer satisfaction.

St. Andrew's Church — at 7 p.m. every Thursday — has become the meeting place of a newly formed Consumer Action Complaint Resolution Committee.

It is an offshoot of the well-known San Francisco Consumer Action organization, taking the first steps in becoming an official chapter of that unit serving North San Mateo County.

Four North County women are credited with the creation of the San Bruno operation. Two are San Brunans Cecelia Leone and Bernadette Newland. The third is Helen Sullivan of Brisbane. And Helen Murawski, of Pacifica, made the initial contact with the San Francisco Consumer group.

"I contacted them and said I was interested in doing something in consumer action for San Mateo County," said the 40-year-old Ms. Murawski.

"They asked if I wished advice or to work with them and eventually be a branch of that organization. I saw no point in going through learning pains," said Ms. Murawski. "So I decided it would be easier to go under the wing of San Francisco."

San Francisco Consumer Action is considered the most effective consumer interest group in the West and one of the best in the country. It started in May of 1971 in the living room of San Franciscan Kay Pachtner, now that organization's executive director.

Ms. Murawski said an agreement was reached whereby a Complaint Resolution Committee would be created. If, in time, the effort proves successful, it will become an official North San Mateo County chapter to San Francisco.

Karen Zahn, San Francisco Consumer Action's coordinator of the Complaint Resolution Committee, said the San Francisco unit's goal is to have similar committees functioning in every assembly district in the Bay Area.

These committees are a newly instituted procedure to handle consumer complaints. They began in August of 1974. Ms. Zahn said paid procedure was to operate under a caseworker-client relationship. Under the committee procedure, consumers with grievances involving defective merchandise and unfair merchants are required to become active in resolving their own disputes, as well as those of other committee members.

It is patterned after a similar operation in Cleveland, according to Ms. Zahn.

"Before, when a case was settled, the consumer many times hadn't learned very much, mainly because we did most of the work," said Ms. Zahn. "There also was a backlog of complaints." She said San Bruno's is the eighth committee now in operation. Others are in San Francisco and Berkeley.

Once Ms. Murawski and the San Francisco group reached agreement, the next step was to see whether there was interest for such an operation in North San Mateo County.

Ms. Murawski, active in various civic and environmental issues in Pacifica, began calling her friends to invite them and their friends to a general public meeting at the San Bruno Public Library. That meeting was held in mid-December. Approximately 20 persons attended. Another meeting was held a short time later. Only the core group of four women showed up. They decided to pursue the matter, however, and attended several San Francisco committee meetings.

"Our county is so large that we had to stick to the north part of it," explains Ms. Murawski. "We decided San Bruno was a good central location."

Mrs. Leone, after attempts to locate at various places in the city, finally received permission to hold regular weekly meetings at St. Andrew's Church.

The first complaint resolution committee meeting was held March 13. One woman showed up. She had a complaint having to do with what she considered an unsatisfactory paint job on her house.

After listening to the complaint, the charter members of the committee agreed to pursue it. There is a three-step procedure to follow, according to Ms. Zahn, who also attended that first committee meeting.

First a letter of complaint is sent to the businessman involved. Carbon copies are sent to the district attorney and the Department of Consumer Affairs. If that does not settle the issue to everyone's satisfaction, the committee organizes a delegation to visit the merchant, to negotiate a settlement on the businessman's premises.

Failing in either of these two efforts, the committee begins what Ms. Zahn calls non-violent educational picketing. "Using leaflets and signs, we simply tell other consumers about the complaint," said Ms. Zahn. "The case is usually settled at this point."

The first San Bruno complaint, however, never reached any of the stages. "The next day, the woman called and said we didn't need to pursue it," said Mrs. Leone, who had been acting as chairperson of that initial committee session.

Mrs. Leone was concerned that too many consumers do not pursue issues, for whatever reason, but mainly because they don't feel the effort is worth it. "I'm a fighter. I'll pursue it," she said. "Many people don't and maybe with this consumer action backing they'll do it.

"I think it will be good for the Peninsula, and long overdue," said the 50-year-old Mrs. Leone who says she's long been interested in consumer issues and has in the past made use of the San Francisco Consumer Action organization.

Founding member Ms. Sullivan has the distinction of having experienced consumer complaints from the other side of the fence. Although she now refers to herself as "a professional volunteer," she once worked as a customer service representative for the phone company and in the customer service department of a major department store.

"I've experienced what consumer problems are," said Ms. Sullivan. "I was trying to get them off the company's back. I got a little fed up with it. In many cases the people's complaints were justified."

Ms. Sullivan, at 28, also illustrates the diversification of the consumer movement in that she's unmarried and has no children.

"I think as soon as people find out about us, we'll get lots of requests for help."

Mrs. Newland agrees. "At one time or another everyone has a complaint. I'm sure as word gets around there'll be more members," said the 29-year-old housewife. "Sometimes when people have complaints they don't know where to go."

Mrs. Leone emphasized, "We're not anti-merchant. We're out to have a better relationship with the merchant. If we as consumers are dissatisfied with a store, we'll tell our friends it's a bummer. On the other hand, if we had a bad experience that was quickly taken care of we'll also tell our friends about that.

"People are as responsible as the merchant," she said. "Many times a person is not deliberately ripped off. But too often the consumer says nothing. That makes it easy for a merchant not to extend courtesy and have a consumer be satisfied. I say go back and complain."

Ms. Murawski said, "If the merchant is selling a good product and giving excellent service he has nothing to worry about." People work too hard and pay too much not to get their money's worth," she said.

San Bruno Chamber of Commerce Manager Gerald Chandler said the chamber has no aversion to the consumer action group, "as long as they're fair."

He said it's a matter of whether the group will be "chasing business or working on legitimate complaints." Chandler said if it's the latter the chamber "probably will be referring" problems to the group.

Measles Warning Issued By Health Department

Immunizing against measles is an urgent necessity in San Mateo and other Bay Area counties, according to Dr. James Chin, chief of the state Department of Health's Infectious Disease Section.

San Mateo, San Francisco, Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, he said have been scenes of recent measles outbreaks among junior high school age youngsters who entered school before immunization became mandatory.

Dr. Chin warned that measles are much more dangerous than many people think, being related to pneumonia, some forms of blindness, and encephalitis.

The doctor said parents should check with their own physicians about children's need for one-time measles immunization, or booster shots.

Families on Medi-Cal, he said, may have their children immunized free of charge.

SSF Hotel Blaze Second in 2 Weeks

A two alarm fire spread up the side of an old South San Francisco hotel Monday morning, forcing its 50 residents, some dressed in nightclothes, out into the street, but causing relatively minor damage.

It was the second time in two weeks fire has struck the two-story, Golden Eagle Hotel, at 701 Airport Boulevard. The hotel is occupied mostly by elderly persons.

A fire department official said both fires started in a debris container at the rear of the building.

Monday morning flames, shooting up over the top of the 50-year-old structure, could be seen for three blocks and smoke for over half a mile. The fire slowed rush hour traffic on the Bayshore Freeway.

A fire official said a street fire alarm box was pulled at 6:45 a.m., and 15 firefighters were dispatched to the scene. It took only about half an hour to control the blaze, which spread up the side of the building and into two hotel rooms.

"The fire was just getting going when we (firefighters) got there," the fire official said. "We were able to catch it before it got out of control. Another five minutes and it would have been a different story."

The fire official said a second "precautionary" alarm was pulled when it became evident the fire could spread throughout the old hotel and endanger the 50 occupants.

No one was injured in the blaze, which officials said resulted in $10,000 in damages.

A crew of six firefighters were mopping up "hot spots" this morning.

Cause of the fire is under investigation. Officials said at this time there appears to be no suspicious circumstances surrounding cause of the blaze.

DC Woman Sent to Jail

Linda Esther Oberlin, who pleaded guilty earlier this month to voluntary manslaughter in the death of her eight-month-old son last Dec. 8 in her Daly City home, was sentenced to one year in county jail Friday by Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo in Redwood City.

The baby, Scott, died of massive head injuries. The district attorney's office originally charged the 28-year-old mother with murder.

How It Works

Hostage Negotiation

By JOHN CURRY

Armed men trapped by police inside a store hold employes and customers as hostages. "Clear out and leave a getaway car or we'll throw out a body every five minutes!" comes the warning from inside the store.

What do the police do?

They're learning, and it seems to be paying off in freed hostages and live suspects arrested.

Hostages, either taken by design or caught in the middle of a crime situation and grabbed as protection, seem to be a growing favorite for everyone from international terrorists to an angry partner in a family squabble.

Law enforcement reaction is taking two major forms. One is the Special Weapons And Tactics (SWAT) team. The other, newer approach is a special hostage negotiation technique that so far appears to help avoid bloodshed.

Talking an armed man into releasing hostages unharmed and giving himself up is nothing new to police, but new specialized methods are being devised as an alternative to SWAT. "We don't want to limit ourselves," the San Francisco Police Department's HN training officer says.

Sgt. Jerry Doane recently led 40 officers from 14 Bay Area police agencies — including five from the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office and one Burlingame officer, through a training course.

Interest is high and Doane, who calls the HN approach "psychological intervention" and who is working on a master's degree on the subject, said there could be another week-long course offered "in a couple of months."

The whole idea is to get everyone out alive, including the suspect, by a coordinated effort that avoids shooting or tear gas or anything else, such as a show of overwhelming force, that might provoke a violent reaction, Doane said.

Doane and Sgt. Ralph Schaumleffel started the unique training program, the only one in the western United States, on their own after Doane had heard about New York City's hostage negotiation program at an October, 1973 seminar in Cincinnati, Ohio.

They got the go-ahead from Chief Donald Scott and the last year has been spent training 14 San Francisco police captains and lieutenants in "the basics of how to deal with those holding hostages," Doane said.

Doane wouldn't elaborate on just what the approach is to someone holding a hostage. "We don't want to give away our game," he explained.

Whatever it is it seems to work. Doane ticked off three major Bay Area incidents of "classical hostage situations" in the past year in which no one was hurt. One, at a Petrini Plaza market in San Francisco some months ago, several store employes were released unharmed and a holdup attempt broken up with several arrests after 6½ hours of negotiations.

An airline ticket office robbery in the Sheraton Palace Hotel was foiled and hostages came out unscathed.

San Francisco officers assisted in a Pleasant Hill case where a man held his own daughter hostage in his home, daring police to come and get him. He was persuaded to surrender, Doane said.

Hostage negotiations were developed first in New York City after the 1968 Olympic Games massacre of Israeli athletes in Munich, Germany, by terrorists.

The story, as Doane tells it, was that the NYPD feared for the safety of various United Nations and other foreign officials within their city and went to work on ways to keep people from being killed if possible.

The 70-member New York detail so far has trained officers from 200 other agencies in the East and is recognized as a leader in this area, Doane said. The system proved itself in the John and Al's Sporting Goods store crisis in Brooklyn, in which all hostages held by the suspects for four days were released.

"There is tremendous interest from all over the country now," Doane said. As a last resort police may "have to go in the old way with tear gas and by storm," but trained negotiating is one more alternative and a direct opposite of the SWAT approach, in which marksmen are usable "only under very limited circumstances," he stated.

San Mateo County Sheriff's Capt. Len Cardoza, who took the course, called it "excellent" and said it offered "a little insight into how you might be able to handle this problem."

He agreed with Doane that HN is a good alternative but not the whole answer. Cardoza said also that the local sheriff's office hopes to have a hostage negotiation team operative in six months in this county.

"You're dealing with probabilities, not certainties. If a suspect takes a hostage he wants to talk to somebody. You can wait in all but a few hard situations. You can establish communications, which is what it's all about," Cardoza said.

There have been several situations in San Mateo County where deputies have talked suspects into releasing hostages, Cardoza said. In one, Deputy John Dorsey talked a man out of a house, and in another Sgt. Paul Giguiere disarmed some juveniles inside a home.

But the training in the new technique has yet to be tested here, Cardoza said.

Attending the San Francisco course also were Chief Harold Barker, Lt. Paul Hale and sergeants John Wells and William Sweeney of the sheriff's office and Burlingame Lt. Alfred Palmer.

Doane listed four basic situations where hostages are taken to enforce demands. They are:

- Predation, 17-18 per cent of all hostage situations, where the victim is kidnaped for ransom.
- Pathological, 25 per cent, hostages taken for homicidal, suicidal or sexual motivations.
- Political, only 7-8 per cent. Patricia Hearst was a political kidnap victim originally.
- Escape, fully 50 per cent of all hostage situations in the U.S., in which the taking of hostages is secondary to some other conduct, such as a robbery, auto theft, etc., in which a crisis situation either develops or is foreseen by the perpetrator.

San Pedro Park Plan OKd

A master plan designed to capitalize on the existing features and to minimize conflicts with sensitive areas in the development of 1,000-acre San Pedro Valley County Park adjacent to Pacifica was approved March 24 by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

In approving the plan and finding the environmental impact report complete, the board authorized the preparation of development drawings. A total of $1,150,000 presently is scheduled for development of the park.

Following a presentation by a group of young persons representing the Inter-School Sierra Club, the board approved a motion by Supervisor John M. Ward that the parks and recreation department investigate the possibility of providing a space in the park for a youth hostel.

One spokesman, Dave Sharkey of San Bruno, said the Sierra Club will finance construction of the hostel, which would be accessible to hikers, if a location is approved. The group said it would like the county to subsidize the estimated $2,000 to $5,000 cost for a hostel keeper.

In a report submitted to the board, County Director of Parks and Recreation John T. Brook Jr. said the master plan is devised to capitalize on the existing features such as views and interesting places, and to minimize conflicts with sensitive areas such as the steelhead fishery and erosive soils.

"In an area which is as sensitive to use as the site study indicates, it is of paramount importance to have ample facilities, open fields, and trails for a limited number of users in order to protect the intrinsic resources of the park," Brook said.

His report said the park would be planned to accommodate up to 400 persons at any one time. He reported that an effective monitoring system, as proposed in the plan, will be used to keep persons from exploring off trails, scrambling down creek banks and trampling naturalized grass fields.

In order to provide for as many users as possible and still keep within the concept of a relatively passive use, parking and picnic sites with adjacent turf fields are distributed throughout most of the broad valley area of the park.

6 Pacificans Safe

Family Flees Fire

A Pacifica family of six was forced by flame and smoke to flee its three-bedroom hillside duplex Friday.

Deputy Fire Chief Robert Bingham said Mrs. Charlotte Gouailhardou, a semi-invalid, was carried downstairs to safety by neighbors Nancy Marshall and Pete Cardinal and daughter Mary Louis Gouailhardou, 14.

At the same time, Yvette Gouailhardou, 13, was leaping from a bedroom window some 10 feet to the ground as smoke and flame continued to spread.

Yvette had been asleep in the bedroom at 454 Lewis Lane when she was awakened by the commotion and smoke.

Bingham said John Gouailhardou, 6, was playing with matches in a bedroom he shared with 10-year-old Jannine Gouailhardou. The deputy chief said a newspaper caught fire and John hid it beneath a bed, so the fire would not scare anyone.

Gouailhardou, his wife and the other children were watching television in the upstairs living area when the blaze was discovered, about 10 minutes after it started in John and Jannine's room.

The deputy chief said structural damage was estimated at between $20,000 and $25,000 and contents, about $6,000.

Bingham said he could see smoke billowing from the dwelling and estimated that firemen had water on the blaze within four minutes after receiving the alarm.

The Pacific Manor region duplex was totally engulfed by flame and smoke when firemen arrived, Bingham said.

Bingham said the family's dog and cat perished, but three 10-day-old kittens were saved.

He said the kittens were being nursed by a neighbor's cat, which recently lost her own litter.

'World's End' Showing Set

"The End of the World" will be the final show of the season for the College of San Mateo Planetarium. It will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, April 3-May 1, free to the public.

"After centuries of patient research, astronomers are piecing together a picture of what lies in store for us," says planetarium director Michael Chriss. He promises to explain the theories of the world's end and how they developed.

Following each program, weather permitting, the public may observe Saturn, the moon and other celestial wonders, Chriss says, through the campus facility's four-inch refractor and six-inch reflecting telescopes.

Top Opera Awards to Localites

Baritone David Romano and mezzo soprano Marie Laferriere received the top awards in the San Francisco Opera Regional Auditions held at the War Memorial Opera House recently.

Romano, 23, was named recipient of the $500 L. Henry Garland Memorial Award. The Prize was donated and presented by Merola Fund vice president Mrs. Bert W. Levit.

Miss Laferriere, 25, received the $300 P & Z Company, Inc. Award, donated by Merola board member Mrs. Fred Pavlow.

Special Mention was given to soprano Dolly Smith for stage deportment and presence and to soprano Henrietta Davis for vocal potential. Others participating in the competition were sopranos Eddye Pierce Berry, Donna Cole, Dorothy McPherson, Claudette Peterson and Camille Rosso; mezzo soprano Annette Cairo; baritones Kenneth Criste, William Pisenti and John Trout; and bass John Beauchamp.

That Fascinating Sport—Boxing

One of the most fascinating aspects of the sports world has always been, to us, the heavyweight boxing division — notwithstanding farces such as the Patterson-Rademacher, Ali-Foreman, Ali-Wepner, matches. And the most interesting era of that division is the very early "modern" (basically, when Americans started using Marquis of Queensberry rules) era, particularly during the salad days of Gentleman Jim Corbett.

What one must keep in mind about that era is that at no time in American history was the professional prize ring more loaded with gifted athletes. In those days, organized sports weren't, to use a phrase, very organized. While there was a fair amount of participation of amateur sports, there were only two professional sports extant, and one of those was represented by basically only one team, while the other was illegal in most states, counties and cities. We speak, of course, of professional baseball (which was represented almost solely by the Cincinnati Red Stockings, which was really a barnstorming exhibition all-star team playing only about 60 games a year), and of boxing. Therefore, if a guy wanted to make a living at playing games, he either had to be good enough to make the Red Stockings, which probably put him into the top 100th of one per cent of quality baseball players in the nation; or have the double-guts to get his head punched in for a small purse and quite possibly 30 days in the slammer.

But at least the pro boxer didn't have to be in the top 100th of one per cent to ply his trade, and so boxing drew the best — an undoubtedly, the most determined — athletes in the country. Witness the fact that John L. Sullivan had a chance to sign on with the Red Stockings as a first baseman (they say he could hit the ball farther than just about anybody on the East Coast), but opted for the ring.

Of course, because of its tainted legality and gambling connections, boxing tended to have a bad reputation because it drew to it some very shady characters (come to think of it, it hasn't changed much, has it?).

AND THAT'S WHY we find Corbett so interesting, not only because, being from San Francisco, he put our city in particular and the west in general on the international sporting map, but also because he loaned some class and legitimacy to a sport that had revered Sullivan, who was nothing more than a bully and a ruffian, to use the terminology of the day. And historically, Corbett is probably the most important prize fighter of them all, in any weight division.

Corbett, of course, was the first boxer to prove and make popular the notion that fist fighting could be an art involving certain thought processes, and wasn't just a match of brawn and thoughtless courage.

Corbett is credited with inventing the left hook, in fact, because he was able to think literally in the heat of battle (it was so hot that day the fighters' feet blistered), rather than to rely only on muscle. It happened during the legendary Benicia Bay barge fight with Corbett's boyhood rival, Joe Choynski, when Corbett broke the third and little fingers of his left hand during the fight. Because it hurt like hell to hit Choynski with his straight left, Corbett bent his arm and swung from the side, hitting his target with the first knuckle and side of the hand. That was the birth of the left hook.

Corbett was also the first recognized "world's champ after he beat England's Charley Mitchell in Jacksonville, Florida in January, 1894. Prior to that time there were only American champs and European champs. Sullivan would never fight "foreigners" or "black men."

CORBETT WAS THE FIRST athlete to ever use moving pictures as a training aid, and the first athlete to get paid for allowing movies to be made of him. This all took place when Thomas Edison, wishing to test his newly developed kinetograph at the New Jersey invention site, arranged a bout to be filmed in Edison's studio between Corbett and one Tom Courtney, the champion of New Jersey, in 1894. Sullivan actually had been offered the first fight, but turned it down, because he didn't think the money ($4,700 to the winner) was good enough. But Corbett, who believed it would be useful to see himself in action, accepted the fee from Edison. He and Courtney fought six two-minute rounds (the camera ran out of film every two minutes), and Corbett knocked Courtney out in the sixth round, having carried him, so Edison could get his money's worth.

From that point on, boxing was closely tied to the movie industry. Motion pictures of prize fights were the most staple commodity of the kinetoscope "peep shows" before the advent of projection screens; and later, with the projection screen, Edison's old kinetoscope films were shown to large audiences and were important in the development of moving pictures from a novelty to an industry.

The Corbett-Courtney film became so popular in kinetoscope parlors, vaudeville shows, traveling carnivals and amusement parks, that Edison eventually induced Corbett to sign the world's first "exclusive star" contract with Edison's Kinetoscope Exhibition Company.

Perhaps an even more historical fight also included Corbett, when he unsuccessfully defended his crown against Ruby Bob Fitzimmons in Carson City, Nevada, in 1897. That was the first championship fight ever filmed, the longest film made of a single event, up to that time, and the first fight ever filmed specifically for showing by projectors on screens.

THE FIGHT was the first billed as the "Battle of the Century," and had a mass of coverage, which would be hard to duplicate even in this day of advanced communications. Corbett and Fitzsimmons were perhaps the first athletes ever hired by newspapers (New York World and the Hearst papers) to write their own daily reports from training camp. It was the first time a woman — Fitzsommmons' mannish wife, Rose — ever worked in a fighter's corner, and the first time an outdoor arena had ever been built especially for a fight.

The movie took in $750,000, the first movie of any type to ever gross anywhere near that much money. It opened at the Academy of Music in New York, the first time an athletic event OR a movie of any kind, ever was treated as a social event.

As for what happened in the ring itself, the fight produced a "long count" long before anybody ever heard of Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney, and introduced to the sporting lexicon the "solar plexis punch."

Fitzsimmons was being literally beaten to a pulp by the fast moving, quick punching Corbett when, in the sixth round, Corbett hit the exhausted Fitzsimmons with a left hook which sent him reeling to the canvas. Fitzsimmons grabbed Corbett's legs, and the referee didn't begin the count until Corbett was able to pull away from the strong Fitz' grasp. Then, Corbett claimed that the ref counted too slow. Corbett later claimed that Fitzsimmons had been down at least 13 seconds before he was able to pull himself up.

Fitzsimmons, known for his ability for quick recoveries, managed to last the round, and never after that, even though Corbett continued to outpoint him, did a tiring Corbett have a chance to put him away. In the fourteenth round, Fitzsimmons, obviously beaten and bloody, landed what Corbett always claimed was a "lucky punch," a powerful left hook to the stomach, which caused Corbett to collapse to the canvas, conscious, but literally paralyzed below the waist. That simple punch became famous, and as must happen to all famous things, it was given a name — the "solar plexis punch."

Ah yes, those Corbett days were wild and wonderful.

Daly City Invitational

Hurler Wins Twice in a Day

History repeated itself Wednesday as Half Moon Bay baseball coach Neil McNevin had one of his pitchers throw two games in one day to win a tournament.

Jeff Ormonde did it last year. This year it was Nate Burr, who beat Terra Nova 5-3 in an 11 a.m. game and after about an hour's break came back to edge Jefferson 2-1 to give the Cougars the Daly City Lions Invitational title.

Terra Nova edged Crestmoor 5-4 for third place, Lowell blanked Riordan 4-0 for fifth and Westmoor beat Burlingame in nine innings, 6-5, for seventh.

In first round South San Francisco Easter Invitational play, Berkeley defeated South S.F. 9-8 and El Camino downed Richmond 5-3.

Burr, a junior lefthander, struck out seven and walked two in his second seven-inninng stint. Catcher Mike Dale scored the winning run in the fourth on an error.

Jeff scored once in the top of the seventh on Mike Merlo's double. Eric Haynes then beat out a swinging bunt when the throw to first flew high, but Merlo tried to score on the play and was out by an appreciable margin.

Westmoor had tied Burlingame in the seventh on Rob Baptista's two-run homer, but entered the bottom of the ninth down by one. Catcher Ken Sugrue walked and was sacrificed to second. Corey Price singled him home, then stole second. Soph John Smith singled Price home for the win.

SSF tied Berkeley 8-8 in the fifth, as Al Dunn knocked a two-run homer. But SSF gave up nine walks — four of them in the last inning when Berkeley scored the deciding run.

El Camino hurler Herman Segelke struck out 16, but walked seven and had three errors committed behind him; and therefore had troubles from time to time. Ken Whitsoe hit a solo homer for the Colts in the third and John Rico hit a two-run blast in the fifth.

Millbrae Hall of Famer

Willie Ritchie Dies

Willie Ritchie, who held the world lightweight championship for more than two years just before World War I, is dead at 84.

He died March 23 in a Burlingame convalescent home. Private funeral services were held Wednesday in Millbrae, his home for 21 years since he retired.

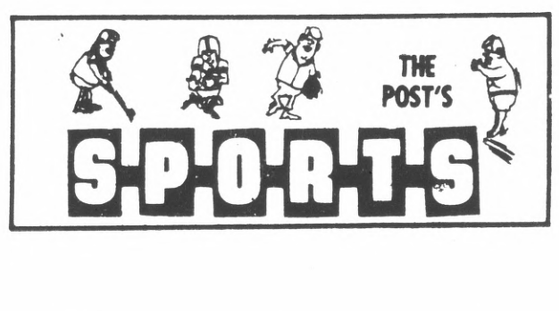
Born Gerhardt A. Steffen in San Francisco Feb. 13, 1891, he took the name Ritchie early in a fight career that started when he was 16, lasted 20 years and earned him a place in the Boxing Hall of Fame.

Ritchie won the world championship at nearby Daly City, Nov. 28, 1912 on a foul in 16 rounds from Ad Wolgast of Philadelphia. He defended the title successfully five times before losing it July 7, 1914 in London to Freddie Welsh on a decision in 20 rounds.

In World War I Ritchie was a boxing instructor in the U.S. Army. He had a few comeback attempts in the 1920s then retired with a record of 36 victories, eight by knockouts, 22 no-decision fights, four draws and nine losses, only one by knockout.

He was named to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1962, after he had served 24 years as chief inspector with the State Athletic Commission.

He is survived by his widow, Ethel, a daughter, Barbara Green, and a son, Geary Steffen.



Ike Allmond Leads Trojans

Ike Allmond won both hurdle races and John McVeigh shattered his own school record in the three mile to highlight Skyline College efforts in the Diablo Valley Easter Relays Saturday in Pleasant Hill.

Skyline also won the two-mile relay in 7:55.5, but that was two seconds off the Trojans' best run last week at Santa Barbara.

Skyline coach Bob Lualhati was especially pleased with McVeigh's 14:27.8 three mile triumph, which took nearly ten seconds off his school mark of 14:37.2.

Allmond took a narrow victory in the intermediate hurdles in 56.4 over CCSF's Dwight Williams (56.5), then ran away from the field in the 120 highs in 14.8 — into a strong wind. Phil Bransom of Porterville was far back in second at 15.5.

Skyline's two mile contingent was composed of John Moreno (1:59.9), Rich Hornstra (1:59.9), Brian Pierce (1:57.9) and Tony Fotinos (1:57.8). Fotinos came up with a thigh muscle strain after that race, however, and the Trojan mile record holder was held out of the four-mile relay. Skyline placed second in that event in 18:17.8 as Fresno won in 18:14.0.

Trojan long jump star Mike Gilmore, a somersaulter, was the early leader in his event at 21-5 but pulled a hamstring muscle planting his takeoff foot and could be out for several weeks. He had jumped 23-11¾ just last week at Santa Barbara.

This week Skyline travels to Allan Hancock's metric meet Friday in Santa Maria.

Junior Garden Club Exhibits

The Purple Violets Junior Garden Club will exhibit 15 bird pictures in decorated shadow boxes at the Spring Blossom and Wildflower Show in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, 9th Avenue and Lincoln Way, San Francisco.

The show is open April 19, 1 to 5 p.m.; April 20, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and April 21, 10 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.

The public is invited to attend and the admission is free.

The bird pictures were painted by Harriette D. Kiefer, a naturalist painter. The Junior Gardeners made nests from grass, hair, mud, feathers, etc. to represent their particular bird.

They also made eggs from baker's clay and painted them the color with markings typical of their bird. The pictures are mounted in hand-crafted shadow boxes decorated with dried plant material and the nest with the eggs.

This represents part of an extensive Bird Study program as one of their Conservation Projects for the 1974-75 club year.

Other Conservation Projects included the purchase of a Penny Pines Plantation, a contribution of $10.00 to "Save The Poppies" program, and the Juniors entered a poisonous plant exhibit in the Tanforan Winners Circle Flower Show.

Jacqueline Forster, a member of The Purple Violets, will also exhibit some of her herbs and vegetables planted in containers at the First Annual Container Garden Fair which is part of the Spring Blossom and Wildflower Show.

The March meeting on vegetable gardening was held at the home of Junior Gardeners, Gloria and Jacqueline Forster, 2461 Princeton Drive.

Leonard Forster demonstrated how to plant vegetable seeds and had the members plant three kinds of lettuce and squash seeds in plastic egg cartons.

The April meeting will be held at the home of the junior counselor, Mrs. Charles Okken, 2371 Princeton Drive, April 4 at 4 p.m.

The Junior Gardeners will plant ivy topiaries.

Control Insects Before Planting

By IVA NEWMAN

We have had several calls from very disappointed vegetable gardeners on the results of this year's plantings. Some have sown seed that would germinate and start to grow then disappear. Others have set out commercial grown transplants only to find the tender young leaves eaten or badly chewed up before a week was passed.

Most of these vegetable gardeners had spread snail and slug baits and earwig control but still lost the big majority of their plantings. With drier weather in the offing and the chance that the soil will dry enough to be worked this weekend, we called one of the best gardeners that we know to see if there was trouble with the planting at their place.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Max Burnett, 1586 Lodi Avenue, San Mateo, are ardent gardeners. Max is president of the San Mateo County Rose Society so the front garden is devoted to some of the best-grown roses we have seen. Anybody can look over the picket fence and see their beauty. The back garden grows all the vegetables they use. This back garden is so well done that Sunset pictured it. The beds are raised and edged with 1 by 12 redwood. The soil was well mixed with humus before it was put in the raised beds. This has paid off for their vegetables are tops in quality.

Max does the building part but Maria Burnett is the gardener. She is a small lady just above five feet but full of energy. It is she that sprays the roses and does a good bit of the planting and pruning and it is she that grows the vegetables. When we ask her about insect pests eating her young seedlings and fresh transplants she replied that she didn't have any trouble but she would have if she didn't do something about it. Here is what she does:

She spreads an insecticide called Diazinon on the freshly spaded and raked soil a week before she plants the beds. She believes this week of waiting is necessary to get most of the pests hiding in the soil controlled before the seeds are sown or the plants set out.

The insecticide is raked and hoed into the soil to a depth of six to eight inches immediately after it is spread. She buys this insecticide material by the pound package and one pound will cover 1250 square feet of soil.

Sometimes she gets in a hurry to get transplants set out. When this happens she spreads three tablespoons of the insecticide along an eight-foot row and hoes it into the soil. This insecticide is available in all local garden centers and nurseries. The directions for its use are printed on the label.

We might add that the Burnetts have a little dog they love dearly. We have never heard of it being sick. Working the insecticide into the soil prevents even the birds from getting at it.

Applying a good insecticide to the soil before planting will take care of soil borne pests such as root borers and chewing insects such as earwigs which hide in the soil but it won't stop the ravages of air borne pests such as aphids, white fly, leafhoppers, etc. These must be controlled after they arrive. This means that the plants must be watched for the intrusion of these spoilers and a spray applied immediately.

Last year an invasion of whitefly infested both fuchsias and tomatoes in my garden. When I noticed them it was rather late in the evening, stores were closed and we had no insecticide. The next morning early we used two tablespoons of Basic H (Joy or Dove also will work but don't use a detergent containing a caustic element or the leaves will be burned) to a gallon of water for a spray.

Suspect in 11 Rapes Arrested

A 6-foot, 2-inch 200-pound carpenter suspected of raping 11 teen-age girls from San Francisco, Daly City, Pacifica, Belmont and Redwood City, was arrested Friday night at his Redwood City home.

Booked at the county jail in Redwood City on four counts of rape, one of attempted rape, two of forcible rape with a weapon and two of crimes against children was David L. McDaniel, 22, a construction worker of 348 Sweeney St.

Redwood City Detective Homer Nagel said McDaniel was first arrested by San Bruno police for Belmont police Thursday, but was released when two of his alleged victims were unable to pick him out of a lineup.

Two girls, both Woodside High School coeds, made a positive identification, Nagel reported. One, 14, was criminally assaulted by McDaniel, but the other, 17, escaped injury when she told him to "bug off," when he approached her with a pistol on March 18 on her way home.

He was then re-arrested.
